CD Review

Relentless (2016) Paul DesLauriers Band
From Big Toe Productions

CD REVIEW BY JOHN BERBRICH

Relentless is the perfect word to describe this fearsome blues-rock trio. From the ascending opening bars of "Stewtro Rock (Just Got Back)" to the textured guitar-drums interplay at the close of "Gonna Make You Move (Part 2)," the music charges fearlessly through various blues and rock modes, avoiding clichés while delivering austere power and clanging riff bombs.

First, let's introduce the band. Paul DesLauriers (pronounced "de-loree-yay") leads the group on gritty vocals and fierce lead guitar plus piano and Theremin, backed by Greg Morency on bass and Sam Harrison on drums and various forms of percussion. Together, these guys form a killer band, evoking for me classic blues combos of the 60s and 70s, like Humble Pie, Bad Company, Savoy Brown, Fog Hat, and Free. Not that the DesLauriers Band is derivative, but rather that they play with the same heated masculine authority as these hearty progenitors, even cranking it up an extra notch. It's interesting to note that the five above named bands hail from the UK, and the DesLauriers Band is from Montreal, Canada.

This is a serious guitar band, the sonic path paved by furious bass and drums. The guitar is urgent, the vocals full and powerful, hiding nothing. One of my problems with too many blues artists is that the listener usually knows what note is coming up soon in any lead; with DesLauriers you never know what's next. He can play it sweet or he can make it shriek, and either way sounds unexpected and right.

Really, every song is superlative. "Still Under My Skin," is a dirty blues number that features wild, exciting guitar. "Wipes Away Your Sin," starts like a march, all thudding drums and thrumming guitar chords. "Up in the Air" is a lean and mean solid blues tune. "We Just Might" is a full charge and gallop right from the opening drum roll, DesLauriers roaring all the way on vox and guitar. And the band writes all their own songs, with help on the lyrics by "longtime collaborator" Alec McElcheran.

In January 2014 Paul DesLauriers was recognized as Canada's top blues guitar player at the 17th Annual Maple Blues Awards ceremony in Toronto. In 2015 each guy was nominated for best on his instrument—and Greg Morency won for bass.

The band is headquartered in Montreal, but DesLauriers is originally from Cornwall, Ontario. Absolutely buy the CD, and keep your eyes open for local performances. Don't be surprised if they blast you out of your chair.

POETRY

"FREE WILL"

BY VALERIE HARRINGTON

We all have it, free will.
 To do as we please
 When and where we want,
 To change destiny to our own liking
 Knowing full well our actions will cause
 Equal and opposite reactions for others
 Bringing about new situations, new conditions.
 Consideration must be given.

Free will reigns
 Forks in the road exist
 We always wonder later what if,
 The other path was taken?
 Once the choice is made we're stuck
 with the consequences.
 For the good of all concerned,
 Use free will wisely.

"An Exploratory Place"

BY JAMES OLIVER RYAN

In the month of September
 One can picture a cabin
 Secluded---where one can consider something
 A writer's place---wooded---a place with occurrences
 An exploratory place---where imagination
 is a wellspring,

A poet's place
 An airway with identity
 An exploratory place---with serenity,

In the month of September there is a cabin
 Rooted---where one can consider everything

In the month of September
 One can picture a cabin
 Suited---where one can consider nothing
 It is a place of many directions
 It is an exploratory place---one should mention.

"MISSING YOU"

BY VALERIE HARRINGTON

As I look for you,
 I smell your scent in the spring blooms.
 As liquid falls down my face,
 I hear your voice in the breeze.
 I feel your warm touch,

Your sweet, sweet gentle kiss.
 My special angel,
 Giving me inspiration and comfort.
 Just knowing you are still with me,
 Even beyond the veil of life.

9/11 Inside the Pentagon
 Airs Friday, September 9th at 8pm

In the past 15 years we have seen the Towers fall again and again in a series of powerful documentaries and TV shows. Movies have expertly rendered the courage of first responders and the passenger takeover on United Flight 93. But in the smoke of 9/11, one story still remains largely overlooked: the attack on the Pentagon. 9/11 Inside the Pentagon delivers the most complete and largely untold story of what happened behind the walls of one of America's most secretive buildings on September 11, 2001, the day that forever changed the world.

16th Annual Rock & Roll Oldies Show

Tickets are on-sale now for 1 World Foundation’s 16th Annual Rock & Roll Oldies Show ... Mark Farner ... Former Lead Singer and Guitarist of Grand Funk Railroad ... scheduled for Friday, September 9th at 8 p.m. at the Bonnie Castle Resort in Alexandria Bay.

Gold Tickets priced at $50, include Reserved Seating for the show along with an Uncle Sam’s Boat Cruise. General Admission Tickets are available for $30. Tickets may be purchased by calling DPAO at 782-0044 or visit DPAO.ORG. General Admission Tickets are also available at the Alex Bay, Clayton and Watertown Kinney Drugs Store locations.

Mark Farner IS the engine that took the original Grand Funk Railroad, one of rock music’s most successful groups, to the top of the charts. As their lead vocalist, lead guitarist and principle songwriter the group made a beeline to rock stardom following their show-stealing performance before 180,000 people at the Atlanta International Pop Festival in 1969.

Capitol Records was soon on board releasing the band’s appropriately titled first album, On Time, which included such timeless Mark Farner compositions as “Time Machine”, “High On A Horse”, “Heartbreaker”, “Into The Sun and Can’t Be Too Long”. Within weeks it was certified RIAA Gold.

The critically acclaimed 2006 album For The People – Mark Farner The Rock Patriot, is no cliché. It’s powerful pop, political – pure Mark Farner Funk, rivaling his best recordings. It convincingly demonstrates that Mark has lost none of his vocal vibrato or virtuosity as a guitarist or songwriter. Forty years after Mark Farner was star struck with overwhelming success, with 30 million records sold (12 RIAA Certified Platinum and 15 Certified Gold Albums), Mark Farner’s train keeps a rollin’.

For more information call DPAO at 1-800-533-2859 or 782-0044 or visit DPAO.ORG. General Admission Tickets are also available at the Alex Bay, Clayton and Watertown Kinney Drugs Store locations.

GHOSTS AND THE WEATHER

---JOHN GRIFFIN II
UNINI RESEARCH - DIRECTOR/FOUNDER

Can the weather tell us anything about Ghostly activity and how ghosts function? Can consciousness truly exist after the human body becomes deceased? Let's take some time to examine these possibilities.

Let us start off by asking some questions about the human body itself and the nature of consciousness. It is a wide belief that our memories, dreams and images come from the brain. Isn't that just so fascinating?! The brain is a large muscle that sends and receives signals throughout body so that the body performs a particular function. I have to ask the question though, how on earth does the brain create images for us to "see"? Think about it for a minute? When you "imagine" yourself in your own fantasy world, the world in front of you, whether your eyes are open or not, "disappears" and you find yourself in a place that you are not really at! That place could also be a memory as well! Humanities explanation is that it is caused by this large muscle in your head. Does something seem wrong with this picture?

When you do research about the brain, there is something very interesting that people have found. The brain has an energy source. The brain has an electromagnetic field surrounding it. When the brain dies, that electromagnetic field (EMF) no longer exists. So where did it go? Consider the following, EMF is a form of energy. Energy supposedly cannot be destroyed. If this is the case, than the EMF that once existed in the human body could not have been destroyed, but instead must exist somehow, somewhere.

During paranormal investigations that are focused on haunted houses, paranormal teams focus on measuring EMF in the house. They look for areas that have unusual spikes in EMF and also attempt to see if that field of energy moves to different locations whether it be on command or not. As you know, the brain can become tired. It uses a lot of energy at times. Guess what one of these energy sources are. You guessed it...EMF! There have been audio recordings on multiple occasions where a disembodied voice states that it needs "energy". Many investigators experience their energy levels decrease while paranormal activity increases.

People have to also reenergize as well. Sometimes we drink fluids, rest our bodies and many other methods to restore our own energy. Ghosts have been found to do something very similar. Investigators on multiple occasions get frustrated when a ghost does not respond to a command after the ghost had just moved an object. When we are tired after lifting weights, do you think it is easier for us to lift more weights after already lifting weights? Of course not! Do you think after a ghost has used energy to shut a door, that this particular ghost will be able to do it again as easily as the first time? Well if our bodies' response to that challenge is any indication, than the answer is definitely no!

Before we begin to talk about the effect weather has on ghosts, let us first talk about what our bodies are made up of. Believe it or not, our bodies have their own vibrational frequency! Everything has a frequency! Science has already proven this to be a fact. Our body also contains a lot of water or basically a cooling substance and of course let's not forget EMF which generates heat!

What about a ghost though? Uini Research believes based off of our data that ghosts have their own vibrational frequency, have some form of a cooling substance and contains EMF. What data are we talking about? Statistics and measurements! Our statistics have shown that when in the presence of an entity, EMF increases and the temperature decreases. Have you even been touched by a ghost? If you have, then I am sure you felt a cooling sensation while at the same time your hair stands up as if there was some type of static electricity. Sound familiar? It should! Ever wonder how Uini Research decided on the name of our theory called the "Thunderstorm Effect"? That's right! It is our way of saying that ghosts are similar to a thunderstorm!

Let us first compare before we continue to show how this all falls into place. A thunderstorm has lightning or EMF, contains a cooling substance a.k.a. rain, has clouds which can generate a shadow, is capable of making sounds, gives off two types of "waves" (EMF and Sound frequencies) and needs to build up prior to becoming the big powerful thunderstorm that is capable of interacting with our physical environment.

A Ghost appears foggy, can create a shadow when manifested, can appear in many forms ("Shadow Figure" or a "Light Being"), decreases the temperature in the area they are located in, gives off EMF, can generate sound via two types of frequency (Sound and EMF) and needs to gain energy in order to interact with the physical environment.

Don't you find all of that to be beyond coincidental? Let me you all ask another question. Can you hold a cloud in your hands? No! Can you hold hands with a ghost? No! But you can see them both right? Of course! That is too many similarities for us to ignore!

Let's go deeper. When I speak about weather, I am not just simply talking about the weather on the Earth. I am also referring to space weather conditions as well. It is scientifically proven that both the Moon and the Sun have an effect on our planets climate. For example, when the Moon is full it creates a gravitational pull that effects the tides. People have also noticed that crime seems to increase or people act differently during a full moon. The tide is made up of water. (DUH!) People are made mostly out of water. (DUH DUH!) Do you know what else is effected by the moon according to paranormal statistics? That's right! Ghosts! Ghosts, for whatever reason, become more active! Now if ghosts contain water molecules as per our thunderstorm effect theory, than it would make sense for a ghost to be effected by the Moons gravitational pull.

I also did mention the Sun. The Sun discharges EMF on many occasions, which heads toward the Earth. When the Solar Flare arrives to Earth that is when you typically see the Aura Borealis. The Solar Flare interacts with the Earth's magnetic field creating this effect that can be observed via the naked eye. Until then, that spectacular show cannot be observed. The Solar Flare can also create lightning storms as well! Does all of this sound familiar? How often do we see ghosts? Not often! Ghosts are seen more during lightning storms as well as when huge Solar Flares from the Sun arrive to Earth.

There is something else worth noting here. Rainbows, just like the Aura Borealis, can only be observed under certain conditions. Each color of light has its' own frequency. Just because the rainbow or Aura Borealis is not visible at the time does not mean those colors do not exist at that moment. The frequency of those colors have simply not made it to frequency where our eyes can register it. It is no different than a ghost. Just because you can't see a ghost, does not mean that it is not there!

Dave's Country Corner

It's almost that time again in the Thousand Islands for what has turned into a true marquee event, the 6th Annual Clayton Country Jam, September 9th, 10th & 11th. This year brings a new locale for all the festivities, but more of what past attendees have come to expect each and every year. Great fun and plenty of country music! When it was looking for a venue after last years big show TI Winery owner Steve Conaway, retired U.S. Army Major who was awarded the Bronze Star, didn't hesitate to open up his venue in a major way and welcomed the Country Jam. The momentum builds once again this year with the help of sponsors; Bud Light, U.S Air Force, Otis Technology, Swan Bay Resorts, realty USA, FK Gailey and the Watertown International Airport. This years Media Sponsor include; Stephens Media group, WWNY/WNYF, Newzjunk, Watertown Daily Times & Horizon Aerial Media.

With the help of these sponsors not only has organizer Mac MacFarlane arranged a fantastic 3 day line-up for the show, he's also been able to arrange for our troops around the world to view the 9/11 performance. Again this year the American Forces Network will broadcast an hour of this special 9/11 show to an estimated 500,000 troops stationed overseas. With their satellite feed the Clayton Country Jam will be transmitted to 174 territories on U.S. Military installations including U.S. Bases, U.S. Consulate and U.S. Embassy compounds overseas along with more than 140 U.S. Naval Ships at sea.

This year the Country Jam kicks off with a familiar face on September 9th as the "Cookin' Comedian" Vic Clevenger returns with his southern boy humor and charm. Born in Kentucky and now living in Florida with his wife and two daughters, Vic can spin everyday life and news into something funny. If you like Jeff Foxworthy, Larry the Cable Guy and comedians like them. Then you'll get a big kick out of Vic! He's had a whole year of dealing with his two daughters, adding BBQ-ing to life and just the craziness of life to bring some funny material to the Friday night comedy show.

Night two on September 10th promises to be fun night with a nice line-up of artists; the Waydown Wailers with a hard to define sound because they really have made their own kind of music over the past couple of years. If you like Southern Rock or jam bands you will love these guys, their version of Suzie Q is just fantastic and one of my favorite originals is Whiskey & Cornbread. Matt Chase & Thunder Canyon have been playing country music around NY and entertaining crowds for over 20 years now and will bring their fun & engaging show to Friday night's show. For country fans who love newer artists with a traditional feel James Robert Webb is your guy. His song Daddy Made A Million struck a chord with radio listener he's become a favorite around the North Country and making his mark in Nashville with his new album Pictures. Florida born country-rocker Rick Monroe will bring his fun party style show to the stage Saturday night as well with song great country songs from his EP, It's A Love Thing including the fan favorite Great Minds Drink Alike! And rounding out the night is the uber successful Erica Nicole! After 3 big hits on the MusicRow Chart Erica just inked a deal with RLS in Nashville, a part of the Reviver Records family which is home to LOCASH as well. She is a powerhouse on stage and will deliver an amazing performance to round out the night with her big songs like I Listen To My Bad Girl, It's Comin' Down, I'm Making Mine and so many other great songs. It's going to full night of amazing performance and great music that will leave you wanting more.

The Final and BIG night is Sunday September 11th, part of which will be stream worldwide once again for our troops. Starting off the night will be Country Jam staples and favorites Hotel California. They travel the world recreating the music of the Eagles and are the best in the business! If you love the Eagles, these guys are the next best thing. American Idol alum Sarah Ross will bring her country/rap influences to the stage. After her stint on the singing show took her to Hollywood Sarah was signed to Average Joe Entertainment where she's been honing her craft and working with artists like Colt Ford, the Lacs and others. Get ready to for the Trailer Choir to pop it Off The Hillbilly Hook when they hit the stage! Butter & Vinny will bring their good time country beats to the Clayton Country Jam for you including their new summer song Ice Cold Summer. And the treat of the night will be headliner and country music legend John Anderson! With a catalogue of hits from Swingin', Black Sheep, I'm Just An Chunk of Coal to Money In The Bank, Seminole Wind, Straight Tequila Night and so many more it's going to be a truly special evening filled with amazing country music from one of the best country singers to ever strap on a guitar and stand behind the microphone.

In addition to this special 9/11 performance, five more hours of the 6th Annual Clayton Country Jam will be streamed online for those unable to make it to the TI Winery. Look for the stream on Livestream.com provided once again by Steve Weed Productions. 100% of all donations generated from views of this stream will go directly to the USO, a nonprofit dedicated to strengthening America's military by connecting them to their family, home and country, throughout their service.

Make your plans to attend the 6th Annual Clayton Country Jam, get your tickets soon! You can find them online at www.claytoncountryjam.com

Pokémon GO: Mediocre Game, Cultural Phenomenon

EVERYWHERE I go it seems that people are playing Pokémon GO. In terms of the gameplay itself, it is shallow, unpolished, and buggy, and I have maintained from the beginning that it is a mediocre game at best, a C+ if I were to give it a grade. Reviews at Metacritic are similarly bad, with an average critic rating of at 67/100. And the core game mechanic, walking and catching Pokémon, is repetitive and glitchy. So, that said, why is such a big deal?

First, it has a big franchise behind it. Before Pokémon GO most of us were at least aware of Pokémon, which saw its first game release via Pokémon Red and Green in 1996. I have played a number of these games over the years, with Pokémon Snap for the N-64 being my personal favorite, although they are all generally well designed and enjoyable. Pokémon has always maintained a healthy worldwide following, with various spikes in popularity corresponding with major card game, video game, movie, or television releases. The characters themselves are well conceived and attractive, and there is an established Pokémon lore that people do not need to decipher to play the game. Pokémon is already both familiar and comfortable for many people, and for those new to the franchise, it is simple and approachable.

Second, and perhaps more importantly, it is the world's first Augmented Reality Game (ARG) to break through and go mainstream. By integrating Google Maps into the core gameplay, the game board is simply our real world, augmented by an overlay of information (Pokémon, Pokéstops, & PokéGyms). And although ARG games have been around for a number of years, for most users Pokémon GO is their first ARG game. The core feature of ARG is simple: movement and participation in the real world. As simple as that may sound, it really is a big deal, as it gets people moving (and it really is the main reason I play).

And while currently the game may indeed be mediocre, Niantic Labs CEO John Hanke has suggested that the game has only implemented a fraction of features that eventually will make their way into the game. At the San Diego Comic-Con he announced that there will be a significant number of new Pokémon that will be soon introduced to the game. But before that happens, the first order of business for Niantic is to secure a foothold in all of the major countries around the world, and to iron out the technical glitches. Once complete, Hanke has promised new features like trading, Pokémon and Pokéstop customizations, and more team oriented play. In the meantime, we will need to be patient as the game scales up. Personally, while I look forward to some of these new game features, I more look forward to play balancing and ironing out of known (annoying) glitches, like creatures repeatedly breaking free, Pokéstop fails, and location tracking.

In the end, the formula for Pokémon Go was a relatively simple one, and it will certainly be repeated (and refined) with other core franchises. Solid candidates for future ARG games include Harry Potter, Star Wars, and Disney, among others. If I were to put it in creature terms, Pokémon Go is, right now, essentially a "CP 10 Pidgey" game, with more powerful evolutions certain to come. In terms of its impact on culture, Pokémon Go, and Augmented Reality Gaming in general, is a "CP 2491 Snorlax," and yet it is truly just the beginning.

Movie Review

Captain Fantastic

---BY CRAIG THORNTON

Captain Fantastic is a highly original, incredibly honest, terrific film. Wedged into a summer of huge blockbusters with enormous budgets, high paid casts and CG action, Captain Fantastic is about real people and very interesting things like: family, conformity, death, literature, independence and parenting. Yet it is highly entertaining and emotionally involving and resonant.

Watertown's own Viggo Mortensen plays Ben, a survivalist father of six who proudly home schools his children and trains them to live off the grid and fend for themselves. This includes killing, gutting and cooking their own food, and physical and mental training to make them as strong and independent as possible. The role of Ben fits Mortensen like a glove. It's a perfect part for the actor who shuns Hollywood and the limelight and couldn't care less if he were famous. With his craggy, rugged appearance and uncombed hair, he easily could have walked out of the Northwestern woods.

The children's mother is mentally ill and hospitalized, therefore leaving Ben as the sole parent. Soon an incident plummets the family into turmoil and Ben and the children go on a road trip in their funky converted school bus that thrusts them deeply into the society they have shunned and are sorely unfit for. This trip underscores their alarmingly different lifestyle and creates conflict with Ben's sister (Katherine Hahn) and brother-in-law (Steve Zahn) who believe that the children's extreme upbringing is harmful and creates huge disadvantages for their children's futures. Things are worse with the children's wealthy maternal grandparents played by an imposing, always fantastic, Frank Langella and a sympathetic, warm Ann Dowd.

Speaking of the cast, if there was an Oscar for best casting director; Jeanne McCarthy would win. From the impeccable casting of the six children, to every minor role, including a perfectly wry turn by Missy Pyle as the mother of an amorous teenage girl (Erin Moriarty) who has eyes for the oldest child in the clan; Bo (a terrific George McKay). Captain Fantastic is such a rich experience it is difficult to write about it, as it can't do justice to its layers and complexity. Writer/director Mat Ross is a remarkable talent, working with a self-effacing hand. He has phenomenal story skills and does amazing work with a large ensemble class. So many scenes feel improvised, so many scenes feel real. With this realness, there is truth and in truth there is power.

We should be proud of our native son, Viggo Mortensen, who not only is enormously talented, but chooses great films that actually have something to say. So far, Captain Fantastic is my pick for best film of 2016.
